RUST IN WHEAT.—We are informed by some of the farmers in Vinton county that serious injury has already been done to the wheat by rust in different localities. There may be a field here and there, as is often the case, injured by rust; but we think that the crop will be better than it has been for many years.

BLACKBERRIES.—The blackberry crop in Vinton county promises to exceed that of any previous year within the recollection of the oldest inhabitant. Everybody can have a "good time" picking blackberries. Let us have a blackberry party!

We have received a copy of "The Bat and Ball," a neat little semi-monthly journal, printed at Hartford, Conn. Terms—50 cents per year. Address Bat & Ball, Box 337, Hartford, Conn.

SHEEP SHEARING—HEAVY FLOCKS—WHO CAN BEAT THEM?—Dr. A. Wolf, the oldest and most extensive Wool Grower in Vinton county, who resides in this town, sheared his Sheep a few days ago. Four Fine Bucks (of the Infatado Breed) were sheared in the presence of a number of farmers and others, who reside in the county. The heaviest fleece weighed 21 pounds; age of Buck, 4 years; weight of carcass, 110 pounds. Another fleece weighed 20 pounds; age of Buck 4 years; weight of carcass, 130 pounds. Another fleece weighed 16 pounds; age of Buck, 3 years; weight of carcass, 116 pounds. The last fleece weighed 16 pounds; age of Buck, 3 years; weight of carcass, 100 pounds. These Bucks received no extra attention during the Winter. We should like to know who can beat that? Can any Wool Grower in Vinton county beat it? Some of the old-fashioned farmers will probably consider these figures very remarkable, but they are correct, as many farmers were present "to see for themselves." Let some of the Vinton County Wool Growers send us the figures!

MURDER WILL OUT.

Editor Enquirer: In my own mind I have accused the Editor of the British Echo, printed in this town, of unfairness and of an attempt to conceal from the public that there are many places here where bad whiskey is sold, because he does not publish in the "Business Directory," in his paper, the names of the persons keeping them; but, in the British Echo of last week, he publishes under the date of "14 Moon near the Gas House, June 8th," the history of a "dog bite," which history was probably written in the moonlight hours by some loafer who had been kicked out of some of those interesting establishments into the back yard, and was unable to get home, and wandered into the old British Gas House, in the low valley, and being unable to get further, and thinking he was in the first quarter of the moon wrote the history of a "dog bite," and as the aforesaid editor had also been in the first quarter of some moon near some other "Gas House," he thought the history of "the dog bite" was an excellent item for publication in the British Paper. Any person reading the history of "the dog bite" can see at a glance the state of things in Zaleski. Regular meetings are advertised. More anon. AN OBSERVER.

Zaleski, June 17, 1887.

ZALESKI, O., June 15, 1887.
Mr. Editor: I have seen in your paper for a few weeks past "The Chronicle of Zaleski," wherein you attempt to describe the tyranny of the so-called British Lords. I think you had better pay a little more attention to the wrongs in your own town. Now I do not think nationality makes a person better or worse. I love to see Jefferson's motto of "equal and exact justice to all men;" and I may as well add, all women; too, applied in all cases without regard to nationality or anything else. It appears that the people of your own town are just at present submitting to British impudence with a pretty good grace, and it is something far more degrading, disgraceful, and daring than anything that has ever yet happened in Zaleski. It seems you have a sprig of English nobility, who considers honest labor disgraceful, as post mistress, and this woman, who thinks herself worthy of being treated with utmost respect by the barbarous Americans, has a number of daughters, all too proud to support themselves by some honorable employment. Madam Rumer has been very busy for some time past in reporting that a certain legal friend, a man with a family, in a town not a thousand miles from this place, was supporting this high-born English lady and some of her daughters; but the matter now seems to have reached its climax. This member of the legal profession—this husband and father—this fend in human shape—I may well say, has sent away his wife and children, and taken into the dwelling but lately occupied by them, an important female official and her daughters, and is providing for them as if they were his lawful family and treating one of the daughters in every respect as if she was his lawful wife; and a child has been born—the legal friend at the time of its birth, taking liberties that husbands frequently dispense with. I have been visiting a town not a thousand miles from here. I think I have seen three churches erected for worship of that God who has commanded the adulteress and the adulterer to be stoned to death. Where are the Christians who worship in those churches? Have they a league with hell, that they permit such immorality in their midst? Have they the strong love of right and the detestation of wrong that Christians should have, or has the evil lost its power so that it is no longer fit for anything but to be cast out and trodden under foot of men? Mat. V. Chap.; XIII Verse.

It is reported that some of the neighbors were unable to respond to a call for assistance on the occasion referred to; but a kind hearted woman was ready to listen to the call, undoubtedly her own six sons at the time were all with clean faces wearing clothes clean and whole, and no doubt her six daughters have been so initiated in the principles of virtue and morality and so thoroughly instructed in the mysteries of house keeping that they will never despise labor and resort to prostitution for a livelihood. Any thinking person would suppose that a respectable woman would want to set a better example before the public than to so far outrage the feelings of the wife of the legal friend, who was herself at the time lying very sick at a distance, as to treat another as a neighbor in place of a wife. May that God who instituted marriage sustain and comfort the wife, and may the community, ere long, take a higher moral stand in regard to marriage.

Irish mothers are not proud to labor; neither are they mean enough to live on the fruits of their daughters' prostitution.

Be kind enough to publish these lines in your next paper.

LEGITIMUS.

In a country where the natural desire of the people is to reach the highest point in art, it is very difficult for success to be obtained without the most arduous labor. Public opinion is extremely exacting and not always just; but often unjust and cruel criticism has produced the most beneficial results; the greatest improvements have been made under continued discouragements, and in many successful efforts deemed certain to all except those concerned. In one branch of art has there been more trials and failures, and in no single instrument is there so many different parts to perfect in order to make the whole a success as the Piano-Forte; this is always attended with great expense, requiring large capital and patient perseverance. GROVESTER & CO., 499 Broadway, N. Y., commenced manufacturing Pianos thirty years ago, and is one of the oldest houses in the country. They differed from the rest of the makers in this respect—they aimed to make the best instrument, and to sell it for the smallest profit. These Pianos to-day cannot be excelled. Their singing quality is pure, full, and easily retained through the most lengthy passages. For power they are unparalleled, and are celebrated for their great brilliancy, exquisite touch, and elegance of style and finish. June 13, 1887-4t.

A YOUNG LADY returning to her country home, after a sojourn of a few months in the city, has recently secured, by her friends, in place of a course, ready, dressed, and had a soft complexion of almost marble smoothness, and instead of twenty-three she really appeared but eighteen. Upon inquiry as to the cause of so great a change, she plainly told them that she had used the CREAMER'S BALM, and considered it an invaluable acquisition to her toilet. By its use any lady or gentleman can improve their personal appearance as hundreds find. It is simple in its composition, as Nature herself creates, yet unsurpassed in its efficacy in clearing impurities from the skin, and by its direct action on the blood it draws from all its impurities, kindly cleanses the same, and leaving the surface as Nature intended it should be, clear, soft, smooth and beautiful. The various styles developed in these exercises render them invaluable in an educational point of view, as they tend to enlarge the intelligence and the appreciation, and at the same time form the basis of the pure. They must be studied carefully with reference to the innumerable marks of expression and ornamentation. REPARATOR CAPILLA.

FOR restoring hair upon bald heads (from whatever cause it may have fallen out), and forcing a growth of hair upon the face, which is bald. It will force the hair to grow upon the smoothest face in from five to eight weeks, or hair upon heads in from two to three. A few practitioners have asserted that there is not one that will force or hasten the growth of the hair or beard. Their assertions are false, as thousands of living witnesses (from their own experience) best witness. But surely you will say, how are we to distinguish the genuine from the spurious? It is certainly difficult, as nine-tenths of the different preparations advertised for the hair and beard are entirely worthless, and you may have already thrown away large amounts to their purchase. To such we would say, try the Reparator Capilla; it will cost you nothing unless it fully comes to our representations. If your Duggins does not keep it, send us one dollar and we will forward it, postpaid, together with a review for the story, which will be returned you on application, providing entire satisfaction is not given.
